

TIMETABLE UPDATES

COQUITLAM, NEW WESTMINSTER, BURNABY: In the new timetable, effective April 15, please add the following trips to the #147 Sunday and Holiday schedule. These trips will leave Lougheed Mall for New Westminster Station at 11:46 am and then every 30 minutes until 5:46 pm. From the Station, trips will leave for Lougheed Mall at 11:23 am and then every 30 minutes until 5:23 pm. These trips combined with the regular #147 and #148 service, will provide a bus every 15 minutes between Lougheed Mall and New Westminster Station. All buses will be lift-equipped.

LANGLEY: The 501 Langley South/Scott Road Station operates via 53rd Ave., 204th St. and Douglas Crescent. Not 203rd St. as shown.

When you pay a multi-zone bus fare ask for a receipt

Whether or not you plan to transfer to another bus, SkyTrain or SeaBus, it's essential that you ask for a transfer (fare receipt) when paying cash or a FareSaver ticket for a multi-zone, rush hour fare.

When you plan to remain on the same bus for the entire trip, the transfer (fare-receipt) provides proof of payment when a fare check is conducted at a zone boundary. Without this proof of payment you can be asked to pay an additional amount.

Popularity of Park & Ride lots doubles since 1989

The total number of cars using Park & Ride lots daily has doubled to nearly 3,200 since September 1989, and this has helped attract new customers to SkyTrain. A recent survey shows, for instance, that 91 per cent of the people who park in the Scott Road Park & Ride Lot use SkyTrain to get to their downtown jobs and that most of them stopped driving downtown because SkyTrain saves them money and gets them to work more quickly.

Other lots have shown big increases, including Lougheed at King Edward Street, 19.1 per cent, and Sexsmith in Richmond, 14.1 per cent.

BC Transit is looking at a number of ways to enhance service at Park & Ride lots. Increasing the number of parking spaces and enhancing feeder bus services are two of the initiatives being considered.

FOCUS ON TRANSIT

Public Open House for Champlain Heights, Riverside & Fraser Lands areas

To provide better transit service for people in the Champlain Heights, Fraser Lands and Riverside areas, BC Transit is proposing that the #26 and #29 routes be extended.

BC Transit staff will be on hand at a public open house to answer questions or any concerns residents might have about this proposal.

Spring SERVICE CHANGES

EFFECTIVE
APRIL 15 & 29

Spring schedules bring four new routes, improved service, special summer service, schedule adjustments and seasonal reductions to university service.

Some schedules will change April 15 and others on April 29. See inside spread for full details.

11% expansion planned. Additional local funding required

Demand for services on all four modes of the Vancouver Regional Transit System - bus, SeaBus, SkyTrain and handyDART - increased dramatically during the 1990/91 fiscal year which ended on March 31, 1991. To meet present needs and demands from municipalities for increased services in their areas, the Vancouver Regional Transit Commission is planning an 11 per cent expansion of operations in fiscal 1991/92.

Based on the current cost sharing formula with the province, additional funding will be required to meet the region's $235.6 million share of the recommended 1991/92 budget. At current rates, the money collected from fares, the gas tax, the levy on residential electricity bills and the non-residential property tax would fall $23.8 million short of what is required.

Fare increase being considered

The Vancouver Regional Transit Commission is considering raising fares by an average of eight per cent, beginning at the earliest on July 1, 1991. Public meetings will be held to discuss specific fare proposals.

The Commission will also be making proposals to the provincial government on additional funding sources. It will request that the government increase the gas tax in the Vancouver region by one cent per litre to provide an additional $13 million in revenue. Other proposed sources of revenue are a five per cent increase in non-residential property tax and a 30 cent increase in the monthly hydro levy, to $1.90 a month. This would be the first increase in the hydro levy since 1986.

"After exploring a variety of alternatives, the Commission concluded these increases are reasonable and practical," said Commission chairman Mayor Murray Dykeman. "Increasing demands for public transit means that BC Transit must enhance capacity on existing routes and extend new services to communities. These steps are essential for providing a quality transit service for Lower Mainland residents," added Mayor Dykeman.

BC TRANSIT ENTERTAINERS CHOSEN

On Thursday, March 14, in the Holy Rosary Cathedral Hall, five adjudicators listened to a wide variety of entertainers, and chose 12 talented acts, two of them duos, to perform for you during the next year in Skytrain stations and SeaBus terminals.

Watch for them as they rotate between Waterfront, Burrard, Granville, Stadium, Broadway, Metrotown, New Westminster, Columbia and Scott Road stations, and the SeaBus terminals.

They will not be paid by BC Transit and may not openly solicit money from passengers, but any donations they receive will be theirs to keep.

Left to right, front row: Charlie Mackenzie, Ralph Shaw, Bruce Alan Smith.

Neil Burnett and Joey Hanlon were not available when the photograph was taken.

NEIL BURNETT

Neil, a virtuoso pennywhistle player, has become known locally as Whistling Rufus - Bard of B.C. He also plays bodhran, an Irish drum. He composes many original tunes and songs which he plays with partner Ralph Shaw and is studying Ancient Gaelic at U.Vic.

MELVILLE GREGORY

A busker for 30 years, Melville has played guitar and harmonica for whales from Greenpeace vessels and for people all the way to Beijing and back and on the road to Alaska. He says his loves are wilderness, wildlife, old time gospel music and people.

JOEY T. HANLON

Joey spices his zany singing and guitar playing with comedy and imitations, and encourages audience participation. He describes himself as an entertainer of kids, 85 and under.

JI RONG HUANG

After graduating from the Shanghai Conservatory of Music, Ji Rong, who plays the Erhu (Chinese violin) was a professional musician in China for 12 years. Since arriving in Vancouver in 1986, he has performed more than a hundred concerts and played as a BC Transit busker for a year.

PEGGY LEE

A cellist, Peggy plays in a duo with Charlie Mackenzie and with two local bands; Memory Day and Cider with Rosie.

CHARLIE MACKENZIE

A guitarist, singer, songwriter and poet, Charlie has travelled throughout Europe, playing in restaurants and cafes for meals and accommodation. He is looking forward to sharing his music with BC Transit passengers.

GARY MITCHELL

Gary describes himself as Gary Mitchell Esq., bachelor of buskology, transit troubador, good time guitar picker and blues harpster extraordinaire.

KELLY BRIAN PETTIT

Three years ago Kelly took his guitar travelling for pure self enjoyment, then found to his surprise that he could survive quite well as a busker while seeing more of the world. Kelly plays guitar, sings and writes original tunes. He is also attending college at present.

FRED REISMAN

Originally from Philadelphia, Fred has played the violin for 40 years and busked for 30 years; this will be his fourth with BC Transit. He also tutors high school and university math and physics students during the school year. Fred says busking gets in the blood and although he has stopped occasionally, he always goes back to it.

RALPH SHAW

Ralph has worked as a seismologist, landscaper, blacksmith, builder, bag salesman and butterfly catcher and he has an honours degree in applied physics. He now makes his living as a musician (banjo and other instruments) and as a clown. He is a member of Birds of a Feather, a local four-piece band which performs for kids, and he has been a busker for five years.

BRUCE ALAN SMITH

Bruce has studied classical guitar for 10 years and his repertoire includes Baroque, Classical and Spanish selections. He also performs ragtime and traditional Irish and Scottish pieces.

FANNY STARCHILD

Fanny describes herself as a minstrel who plays guitar, flute and keyboards in a variety of styles; from Folk to Rock and Classical to Reggae. She also performs at children's shows, birthday parties, conventions, etc.

BLAINE WALDBAUER

Blaine's violin repertoire includes folk, classical, country and Irish music. He also performs at weddings and summer parties.

YI-MIN ZHANG

An accordion player for over 25 years, Yi-Min also taught the instrument at a Chinese accordion school. He has been a SkyTrain busker since 1989.
